The disposition of the dogs yesterday was generally good. The St. Berinards were especially quiet in their captivity. Most of these big fellows have become so accustomed to showing themselves that they take all the homage dropped at their feet as a matter of age dropped at their feet as a matter of gourse.

Albert Stevens made his first appearance as a judge in the bull terrier class. He had plain sailing in the challenge class, bestowing the awards on the old favorites. Streatham Monarch and Attraction, but in the open class he had a difficult task to choose between the twelve entries. Duke of Rochester took the award, Dr. Rush Huldekoper, who showed Cardona, taking second prize.

Mr. Gould has commissioned Mrs. St. John, a well-known animal artist, to paint the heads of two of his best dogs.

She went to work yesterday, and while using her brush and paiette attracted no end of attention. The crowd yesterday was at no time large, but there was a steady run of people coming and going all the time. the morning the people who dropped in to talk to their dogs were interested in the antics of an Irish terrier familiarly known as Monkey. His catalogue number is 1,128. The terrier became restless and made a bolt for the Fourth avenue entrance, and got away before any of the grooms could stop him. If Monkey is ever found he will

NEGLECTED TO REPAIR THE SEWER. Mr. McCormick Blames the Street and Water

Board for the Death of His Son. The four-year-old son of A. I. McCor mick, of No. 41 Virginia avenue, Jersey City, died yesterday. The boy's father alleges that his death can be attributed to carclessness on the part of the Board of Street and Water Commissioners. The house in which the McCormick family lives is near the corner of Jackson avenue. Three weeks ago the sewer in Jackson avenue got choked up, and the sewage flowed into the cellars and yards of the houses in the neighborhood of Virginia avenue. The odor was stifling. McCormick, whose cellar was filled with the disease-breeding stuff, called the attention of the Street and Water Commissioners to the matter. He received no satisfaction. The sewer was not repaired. Three children in the McCormick family were ill one after another, and the physician said their liness was due to the dampness and foul air arising from the sewage. The boy who died was the last of the children to become sick. The other two are in a precarious condition.

McCormick thinks that it the Street and Water Board had ordered the sewer repaired his child's life would have been spared. He may bring suit against the city for damages.

Then, after a fresh burst of tears, she said that, on the voyage, she had formed the acquaintance of a young man, Rudolph Stein, a passenger in the second cabin, whom she had promised to meet at Neagle's Hotel, in Hoboken. She confided her money, 200 marks, to Stein, and sent her two trunks to the hotel, but when she went to meet Stein he was gone, her money was gone, her trunks were gone.

She returned penniless to Ellis Island, and, therefore, the authorities would not permit her to leave again. She said once that Stein was her cousin, then that she was going to marry him, then she denied that. Dr. Senner, Commissioner of Immigration, said he thought the girl's hysterical condition was due, in part, to the hardships of the voyage she had passed. The Ellis Island officials will try to catch Stein.

Witnin a week half a dozen manufacturers have granted increases ranging from 20 to 50 per cent., but more is demanded. The striking weavers at Johnson, demanded. The striking weavers at Johnson, Cowdin & Co.'s and the Atlas Silk Co.'s mills show no signs of weakening. About one hundred weavers employed in Hitchcock & Meding's mill went on strike this morning. The weavers of the Helvelia silk mill have given notice that unless their wages are increased 20 per cent. before Saturday they will strike.
